Summary

Recent Bachelor of Information Technology graduate with over a year of hands-on experience building scalable front-end applications using Next.js and React. Passionate about contributing to real-world development projects, learning new tools like Salesforce, and solving problems through collaborative, user-centered design. Strong foundation in component-based architecture, workflow automations, and data integrity. Seeking to join a supportive team where I can grow under experienced mentors, and contribute to cross-functional platform improvements.
